ANOTHER RACE RIOT HUSHED UP

BRITISH PEOPLE KEPT IN IGNORANCE OF THE BREAKDOWN OF RACE RELATIONS

HUNDREDS OF ASIANS RIOTED in Britain's second city last month in a riot that was hushed up and played down. Up to a thousand youths rioted in the Alum Rock area of Birmingham because they took exception to new parking restrictions!

Asians in Britain are so used to getting their own way in this country that they seem to think that they can dictate precisely what should be done in every instance. The idea of rioting over parking restrictions is absurd -- except that it has happened. The police might have been expected to appeal for witnesses so that they could arrest the perpetrators of this violence, but no. All the police appealed for was calm before hurriedly setting up a meeting with 'community leaders' to see how they could best suck up to them.

HOW IT HAPPENED

The incident happened after new parking restrictions were enforced and a parking ticket was issued to a shopkeeper who parked on the newly restricted area outside his store. Three men were then arrested on public order offences, including the shopkeeper. Later, 40 people surrounded the police station in Digbeth to demand their release. When the men were released and returned to Alum Rock, hundreds turned up in Alum Road and started to smash shops and stone passing cars. An excursion coach full of OAPs was also stoned and the windows put through. Pensioners dived onto the floor to avoid the flying glass.

Riot police then turned up and the mob turned on them throwing bottles, bricks and stones. Eventually the mob dispersed after their elders persuaded them to go home. The police managed to arrest two of the rioters and have charged them with the lesser charge of affray rather than riot.

Another unpleasant reminder that the multi-racial society is a farce and is not working is exclusively revealed here and in no other newspaper: All the smashed and looted shops were white-owned. No Asian-owned shops were damaged in any way. We have a local English shopkeeper to thank for that information who went onto the local radio station and condemned the racism of local Asians in no uncertain terms. Another local shopkeeper, Abdul Razak also put the blame firmly on unruly youths for the violence.

What this incident shows, is that:- (1)Ethnic minority violence can be counted upon as a continuing feature of British life so long as ethnic minorities form any sizeable part of the population and; (2)Such ethnic minority violence can be counted upon to further their racial advantage. They have no illusions about 'multi-racial' harmony. They know it's all hogwash, they see things in terms of race. Minority white liberals so quick to condemn 'racism' are their allies.

It's time that the British people woke up to see the truth. Race is an issue; race matters. Calling 'racism' is just a tactic to silence criticism. It does no one any good to continue with the failed policies of the past. Multi-racialism is one of those policies. It benefits no one. In the effort to serve up a diet of all cultures, all culture is lost and so is all national identity. The result is weaker social cohesion and increasing crime. No one wants that and everyone prefers to live amongst their own kind. In the long run, all races will best be served by racial separation thus ending racial antagonisms at a stroke. In the long run, the only sensible policy to achieve that is repatriation.

IMMIGRANT CRIME –

TIME TO END THIS BEDLAM

In a recent gang fight in Tower Hamlets, east London, a black youth, Trevor Coveley, fell victim to a race attack by a rampaging mob of Bangladeshis. Of late, the Chrisp Street market area has seen a number of stand-offs between groups of Bangladeshis on one side and mixed White and Black groups on the other.

On this occasion 80 of the former pounced on 20 of the latter; Coveley was hit by a missile thrown by the Bangladeshis and died from his injuries.

Only a couple of generations ago incidents like this would have been unthinkable. Britain was a harmonious society. This was so because nearly all her people were not only of common European background but also overwhelmingly from closely related Anglo-Saxon-Celtic roots, and a natural meeting of minds was possible.

But now the opportunity for clashes of this type to take place arises all too often. The differences of culture and race, needlessly imposed on this country by the régime that rules us, can only lead in one direction. They can only end up in a bedlam of conflict based upon irreconcilable group differences.

The end of that particular line will be nothing like the Britain that used to be our familiar home. It will be something much more like Bosnia.

That is an outcome that is in the interest of absolutely no one who has to live in this country now or in the future.

Those of us who became Nationalists did so because we could foresee that all of our political masters were at one in wanting to end our county's traditional way of life by importing foreigners utterly different from ourselves and in unlimited numbers from the other end of the earth. The result is that within a short time Britain, as we have known it, will be wiped out by the swamping of our own people; or alternatively there will be bloodshed as incompatible cultures clash, and the country is caught up in vicious civil strife as each fights the other in what all would see as their own self-defence.

In the BNP we want neither result. There are plainly those in the ethnic communities who now agree. Whatever differences we may have with Black MP Bernie Grant he has at least been statesmanlike in taking up the BNP idea of assisted repatriation as a desirable course for his own people of Afro-Caribbean origin. There is a following, too, for Black American leader Louis Farrakhan who has also urged that Black people can only fulfil themselves when they live separately from whites in their own communities.

Meanwhile, as shown by the strife in London's East End, this country is set to become unfit for any sort of human habitation. The British National party represents the last hope that we can ever get back to a same and civilized society.

RAPISTS CAGED

Eight rapists are still being hunted by police after Judge Gerald Gordon sentenced six members of a junior yardie gang to prison. These people have been described as coming from the most dangerous element in contemporary British society.

The beasts led by Spencer Baptiste were, at the time of the attack in October 1994, aged between 14 and 15 when the rapists alighted from a bus in Brixton and manhandled two fifteen-year-old girls off the bus and onto a housing estate. One was forced into a filthy basement and the other into a block of flats. A queue of fourteen 'youths' then formed to abuse them.

The two girls were then raped at least seventeen times over the next two hours. One girl was sexually abused nineteen times. Shelton claimed later that the girls enjoyed it.

Both girls had to undergo the further ordeal of giving evidence in court as the sex-beasts pleaded not guilty. The rapists giggled throughout the trial and showed a complete lack of remorse. Only at sentencing did they look solemn, staring at the floor.

The parents of the girls were understandably angry when all six were let off lightly by the judge who said he took account of their youth. BN says their youth didn't stop them from raping the two girls did it? The soft judge sentenced Shelton, Parkes, Stephenson and Evans to four years; Grant to three and a half years and Baptiste to four and a half years. Baptiste will be out three years from now -- less if he gets parole and the others will be out even quicker. Grant will be out in 21 months, in time for Christmas next year. And they call it justice?

● The case brings to mind the equally terrible sex-attack in nearby Catford, south London when two teenage girls were bundled into an alleyway and twenty 'youths' took turns to rape them. No one was ever prosecuted.

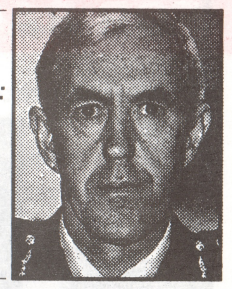
MORE ON MUGGERS

Sir Paul Condon has again produced statistics to show that the majority of muggings in London are carried out by young black males. Muggings have risen by 6 per cent and the detection rate has gone up to 20 per cent. Blacks made up 60 per cent of the arrests, while 70 per cent of victims describe their attackers as black. The statistics show two things:- Firstly that black muggers are 10 per cent quicker on their feet and thus more likely to escape arrest than non-blacks and secondly that taking blacks in London as 20 per cent (an overestimate), then blacks are at least three times more likely to be arrested for an offence of mugging as non-blacks.

'Muggy' Miller

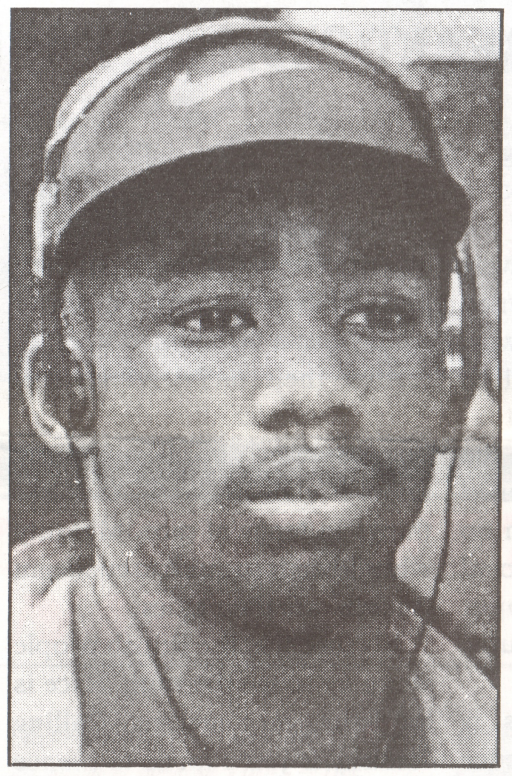
London's Police Cheif, Sir Paul Condon:

"It would be irresponsible not to acknowledge who is being arrested."



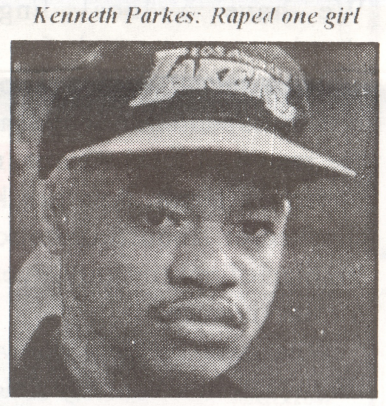
Sir Paul Condon took a lot of criticism last year for revealing that the overwhelming number of muggers in London were black. This time he said: "It would be irresponsible not to acknowledge who is being arrested and who victims are saying carry out these crimes."

● Paul Miller of Bristol went to mug a man only to be arrested by his 'victim' -- an undercover police officer. 'Muggy' Miller was sent down for two years for the attempted robbery and a further six months after admitting a series of other offences.



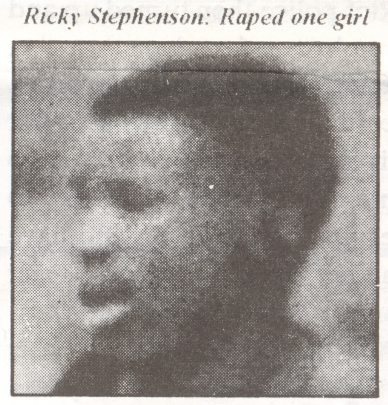
Spencer Baptiste: Ringleader

Kenneth Parkes: Raped one girl



Wayne Shelton: Raped both girls

Ricky Stephenson: Raped one girl



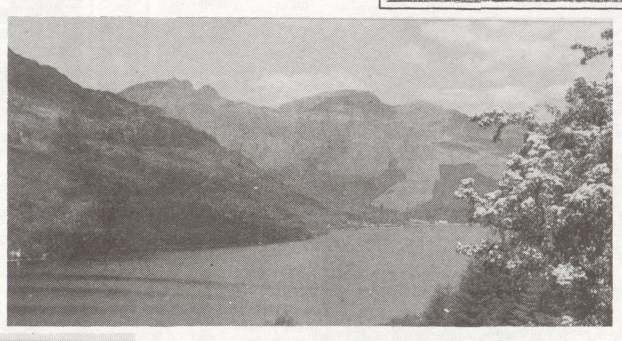
Darren Evans: Raped one girl twice

Dwaine Grant: Raped one girl

Nature's ideal is Our ideal

Nationalism is the ideal of nature; of eagles flying once more over the snowclad mountains of Wales, of the mighty English oak defying the autumn gale, of a spring shower on a Scottish loch, of children playing in a hayfield in Ulster, of the waves of the seas, which surround our island, crashing onto Britain's rocky coasts.

It is in our blood. It is in the soil of our land. It is bright and pure beyond belief. It is life. Yet this enormous energy is at present chained by greed and selfishness, smothered by the politicians of the old parties who serve nothing more than self interest and minority pressure groups.



The British National Party can and will release this powerful energy and use the force of Nationalism to create, out of the chaos and anarchy of the present, a new Britain.

A powerful Britain of industrial regeneration providing decent, secure jobs for all. Yet at the same time, a more beautiful and noble Britain than any of the mighty civilisations of the past. That is why we are building the British National Party.

*Individually, we are the helpless victims of the multi-racial nightmare. United, we can build the land of our dreams -- a new Britain, a Greater Britain. JOIN US!

POETIC IDYL

The beauty of Britain as a metaphor for the purity of nature and of nationalism, its political expression.

BRITAIN UNDER ATTACK!

DRUG CRIME

An increasing amount of crime is being committed to support drug habits. Some people view crime committed in this manner as grounds for leniency.

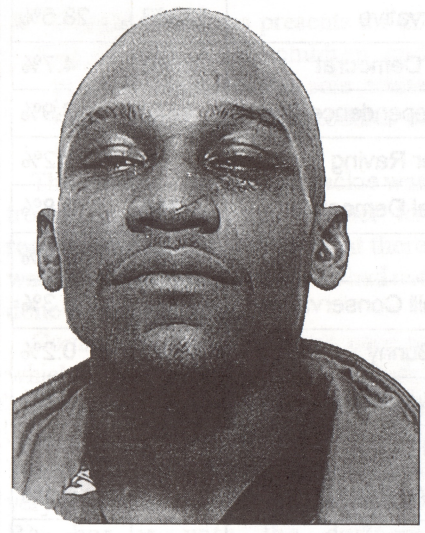
Crack-cocaine addict, Augustus Akwei came before Old Bailey judge Heather Hallet and his counsel argued that despite eleven previous convictions, his crimes of robbery, affray and wounding which included holding a man hostage and forcing him to take crack and heroin, he should be allowed to walk free from the court and given probation. A psychologist was produced to urge the release and said that Akwei carried out the crimes while high on crack and was highly motivated to reform.

Judge Hallet disagreed and expressed astonishment at the psychologist's opinion. Looking at Akwei she said: ''People like you think you can take drugs, behave like a demon and that the courts will accept your drug abuse as an excuse for your behaviour. I form the view that you are a dangerous man and courts must protect the public from people like you.''

In a heartwarming display of knowing what's right, Hallet then sent the 'demon' down for 12 years.

In another case involving drugs, also at the Old Bailey, judge James Chadwin sent Naveed Ahmed and Jangeer Nazir down to four and a half years each in a young offenders institution for a series of armed robberies on building societies in east London. Carrying imitation firearms they terrified customers and staff as they carried out their raids. Both men claimed to have been addicted to heroin and needed the money to finance their drug habit.

Judge Chadwin however, was having none of it when he said before sentencing: ''Drug addiction cannot be regarded as an excuse for what you did.'' But instead of the expected double figure sentences, both men received a light four and a half year sentence because they were under the age of 21 at the time of the offences. BN says that they were old enough to know what they were doing and their youth didn't stop them from committing the crime. As in the Brixton rape case, this is another example of pathetically weak sentencing.



AUGUSTUS AKWEI:
Crack addict and criminal

NOT ALL BAD

White skinhead gang leader Darren Neville, 22, and a crack cocaine addict led a skinhead gang on a ten-week crime spree, picking out well-dressed rail commuters to rob.

He and his thug friends made dozens of attacks in a reign of terror. The gang used the Alexandra Palace to Welwyn Garden City stretch of the London-Peterborough line as their stalking ground. Some of the victims were marched off trains and taken to banks so the gang could use their cashpoint cards and one victim was told: ''If you go to the police, we'll get bail and cut you from ear to ear.''

Neville was the leader and often brandished a replica Colt 45 pistol. He boasted: ''I'm the leader. I'm mad. I'm the violent one.'' Armed with guns, knives, a baseball bat and a craft knife, the gang stole more than £5,000 as well as credit cards, mobile phones, camcorders, watches, jewellery, clothing, personal computers and even spectacles. Neville and gang member Anthony Simmons were arrested after being spotted by a train driver as they frog marched a passenger along a platform. But most of the robbers escaped. Neville got eight years for robbery, attempted robbery, kidnapping and firearms offences. Simmons received six years youth custody.

British Nationalist is often critical about the disproportionate amount of crime committed by non-whites, much of it violent. This is only right. There has been a deliberate attempt to cover up both the scale and the impact of immigration into Britain. It amounts to censorship and suppression of free speech. Nevertheless, it is only fair to also criticise white criminal elements, in this case a group of skinheads. Not that all skinheads are necessarily bad, but then again BN has never said that all Blacks or Asians are necessarily bad either.

BRUTAL RAPE TRIO LET OFF LIGHTLY

Three teenagers who gang-raped a young mother next to her screaming baby in Birmingham are off the streets for only a short while thanks to the soft judge who gave them miserly sentences for the serious and life-wrecking charges of both rape and aggravated burglary which mean that the beasts will start to come back on the streets again in just 3-4 years.

Mohammed Sabir, Imran Hussain and Azhar Zaman who are all in their teens, gang-raped the terrified woman who had only given birth to her baby five weeks earlier.

The three first knocked at the woman's door and when she refused to answer it, they cut the telephone wires and forced the kitchen door. When the woman heard the back door being forced just after her phone went dead when trying to get help the terror she felt must have been overwhelming, particularly when she heard the three coming up the stairs. The poor woman locked herself and her baby in the bedroom but to no avail as it was kicked in and despite her pleas for mercy, she was robbed and then raped repeatedly by all three, while her crying baby looked on.

BN does not consider getting out in 3-4 years for this appalling crime anywhere near adequate. Under a British National Party government, these three animals wouldn't have been let off so lightly. But then again, under a BNP government, this crime wouldn't have occurred at all since these three would have been several thousand miles elsewhere in their own countries.

CULTURE CLASH LED TO SEX ATTACK

In a court case that echoed one several years ago, Naeem Asghar was convicted of indecent assault and sentenced to 100 hours community service. Asghar grabbed a young woman, forcibly kissed her and pushed his hand between her legs. Asghar claimed in court that he thought he was making a pass at the woman and his cultural background made it difficult to approach women. Judge Lait called it an unpleasant and disgusting attack.

Several years ago, a Sudanese man was convicted of rape at the Old Bailey and claimed it was the norm in his culture!

FOCUS ON A CRIME WAVE

Mitcham and Morden used to be pleasant London suburb. People living there no doubt thought that the problems up the Northern Line tube further into London wouldn't effect them. Of course they were wrong as any sensible person with a minutes thought could have foretold. The point is that Mitcham and Morden aren't exceptional. Mitcham and Morden could be almost anywhere in the country.

In just one week, two 'steaming' gangs (very likely the same one) reckoned to be seven or eight strong struck at different stores -- a newsagents and the Co-op. The 'youths' wore masks and looted the two stores on different occasions before making their escape. In the first instance the robbers fled into Morden tube station and in the second, the police arrested them also at the tube station having guessed their likely getaway route.

Another 'racially sensitive' incident occurred when no less than four men chased an 18-year-old woman from a bus stop and through an estate after trying to rob her. On the same day two 'youths' robbed an 18-year-old student of his jacket.

All the cases occurred in just one week in this once pleasant suburb and all the cases had an unpleasant racial overtone to them. More and more people are realising that there is a racial aspect to crime. High levels of crime are seriously destabilising for any society and one reason for high levels of immigrant and second generation immigrant crime is that these people do not feel part of society. In turn they reject society and turn to anti-social behaviour like crime. For the good of all, Britain must return to being an all-white country.

TORIES TROUNCED AGAIN

By now, everyone will know of the huge Labour win in the Staffordshire south east by-election which saw a comfortable Tory majority become a 13,762 Labour majority.

Tory chiefs had been hoping that their fortunes were starting to recover and had been ready to seize on a winning Labour margin of less than 5,000 of proof of that. But the Tory vote fell short of even that lowly target.

With the Government's majority in the Commons reduced to one, many are predicting an Autumn election. If the Tories fortunes looked like recovering that would be a good bet, but BN believes that while an Autumn election cannot be ruled out, a Spring election is much more likely (particularly if the Tories are savaged on 2nd May in the local elections) as John Major holds on at all costs -- waiting like Dicken's Mr. Macawber in the hope that something might turn up.

The full results are given right.

Staffordshire S.E. by-election April 12th

Party name	vote	Percent
Labour	26155	60.1%
Conservative	12393	28.5%
Liberal Democrat	2042	4.7%
UK Independance Party	1272	2.9%
Monster Raving Loony	506	1.2%
National Democrats	358	0.8%
Liberal	332	0.8%
Churchill Conservative	123	0.3%

Natural Law	53	0.1%
Action Against Crime	53	0.1%

TORY BLUES

With another spectacular by-election loss, Tory claims of political and economic recovery have been left in tatters -- the bluster of a tired discredited party that has lost its way.

The 2.9 per cent gained by the UKIP in the Staffs S.E. by-election -- primarily at Tory expense is a major cause of worry for Tories under threat of attack from the UKIP and Sir James Goldsmith's Referendum Party at the next election.

Additionally, the party faces fresh disaster on 2nd May in local council elections where the Tories have already become the third party to the Liberal Democrats; the Tories are expected to lose 500 of the 1,100 seats they are defending.

To add to their woes, two of the longest standing corporate donors to the Tory party have axed further political contributions. Rolls Royce and Sun Alliance have withdrawn their support which in the past has been worth hundreds of thousands of pounds.

Lastly, it is clear that former supporters are deserting in droves. A recent poll showed that 66 percent of people believe the Tories are undermining the NHS and that 55 per cent believe all services are declining while just under half believe that the Tories have broken too many promises and can no longer be trusted. Significantly, while 40 per cent of Tory defectors still generally think of themselves as Conservatives, 60 per cent do not! Some will gravitate towards Labour or the Lib Dems but clearly a lot of people are thoroughly dissatisfied. Some as at Staffs S.E. will vote Labour (or for the Lib Dems if they are in second place) but many are simply sitting at home waiting for a message of hope (the turnout was well down on the 1992 General Election). That message of hope must come from the British National Party!

JUST REWARD FOR A LACK OF PRINCIPLES

As can be seen in the table of voting figures, of 13 candidates, the newly styled National Democrats came 6th with 358 votes winning 0.8 per cent of the vote.

The ploy of changing name from National Front to National Democrats has clearly not worked. While the change of name has shed its none-too-good image, the newly formed Nat Dems also shed its principles when it abandoned the central NF policy commitment to repatriation.

The loss of its principles has been followed by the loss of many activists and crucially in the by-election, the loss of any controversiality. Any small party must be controversial to generate interest. For the electors of Staffs S.E., as at Hemsworth a while ago when they got 0.5%, the Nat Dems were just another bland party among so many others.

MORE TORY, LABOUR SHAME

Police are investigating a former Labour parliamentary candidate over the mis-appropriation of £40,000. David Hurst resigned last year as candidate for Bath and as the local party treasurer after the disclosure that he had claimed unemployment benefit while working as an accountant for 50 local firms. Labour officials have now discovered that £40,000 is missing from when Mr. Hurst was treasurer.

Former Thamesdown mayor David Glaholm in Wiltshire has been charged with corruption by detectives investigating a charity fraud. Former police authority member and ex-magistrate Glaholm is bailed to appear before magistrates shortly charged under the Public Bodies Corrupt Practices Act 1889. Mr. Glaholm is the Labour party's council candidate in the Whitworth ward for the local elections on 2nd May.

A friend of Mr. Glaholm, Labour councillor Gary Rothwell has also been charged by police with theft of a fridge valued at £30.

Tory council candidate for Lingfield ward, Darlington is a jail-bird, sentenced to 2 years imprisonment for hiring a hit-man to kill his wife's lover. The hit-man turned him in! The law and order party is a joke.

Tory MP, Iain Mills, 56, was arrested by police for drunkeness after being found slumped in a London street. He was kept in police cells for four hours to sober up and then released by police with a warning. Mills claimed he was not drunk and had slipped on the pavement while carrying papers!

NHS IN CRISIS

The National Health Service has become a second national lottery. That's the verdict of Dr. Sandy Macara, Chairman of the British Medical Association, and he should know. In a stinging attack on Government health policy and the NHS reforms he called the Patient's Charter irresponsible and he savaged Virginia Bottomley the former Health Secretary widely seen as the butcher of our once world class health service.

Referring to waiting lists, he said: "The cynical manipulation of waiting lists for political cosmetic reasons is the ultimate fraud ensuring only that the more serious cases have to wait longer while less urgent ones receive priority."

Five years from the start of the reforms, Dr. Macara asked: "What do we have to celebrate? Nothing less than the disintegration of the NHS with its fragmentation into several thousand purchasing contracts with some 480 competing local businesses [health trusts -- ed.]."

JOHN MAJOR:
Gave the order to dismantle the NHS

The lack of emergency beds -- of any beds at all -- is purely down to Tory business practice. In efficiency terms, high spare bed capacity is bad for business. Tory trust managers therefore reduce bed capacity to the minimum. The result is an acute shortage of beds leading to scandal stories of critically ill patients driven or flown hundreds of miles to numerous hospitals before finding a hospital bed. What will happen given a major civil disaster is a question that has been begging since the lack of beds became apparent.

Parallel with this development is the contacting out of services. Two-thirds of services put out to tender have gone to outside contractors including ophthalmology, pathology, pharmacy services and sterile supply (remember the fiasco over unsterile blood bags?).

An example of the disintegration of the NHS under the Tories can be found in Barking and Havering Health Authority. There are more than 1,000 people in this area alone who are on the waiting list for the three minute sight-saving operation to have cataracts removed. The Authority says it can't afford £30,000 for more equipment which would treble the rate at which these operations are carried out. As a result, people are having to wait 14 months for this operation, leaving them partially or even totally blind in the meantime. Local people are raising money charitably to buy the equipment.

At the same time, Government funding for AIDS/HIV work reached £281million last year, depriving money from more mainstream use and greater numbers of people to satisfy the demands of the powerful homosexual lobby within parliament and the Tory party.

Before the Tories came to power, it was unheard of for the NHS to rely on charity. These days everyone in the country knows of some charitable work on behalf of their local hospital. The Tories in their deliberate dismantling of the NHS and under-funding actively rely on probable charity to keep it all afloat; they rely on and abuse the professionalism and dedication of the doctors and nurses; and they rely on the brazen manipulation of figures, as they do in other fields, to bamboozle the public that all is well. It isn't, the public know it and the Tories will surely pay for it on 2nd May.

TO THE POINT

Or, We Couldn't Have Put It Better Ourselves - A selection of articles and letters in the establishment press showing opinion moving our way.

Free Speech and Race Relations: Principles of Good Practice and Conduct for Political Campaigners sounds like some Orwellian edict emanating from one of the trendier American campuses -- or perhaps Ken Livingstone's GLC at the height of its notoriety.

It will surprise few people that such a document was yesterday issued by the Commission for Racial Equality (CRE), and that such pieties were duly endorsed by the leaders of the Labour and Liberal Democrat parties. What is truly astonishing is that the Conservative Party, in the person of its chairman, Dr Brian Mawhinney, has chosen to endorse this illiberal and politically correct document. [not at all. ed]

The contemporary Tory party reacts to the very mention of race like a vampire before a cross: it retreats abjectly, even offering no opposition to vindictive assaults by the CRE on those institutions that still command widespread respect. In response to the CRE, for example, the Ministry of Defence last week cravenly foisted 'equal opportunities' policies and advisers upon the Army. Like the Conservatives of the Fifties, who conciliated the trade unions at massive long-term cost to the economy, so the party of John Major appeases 'group rights' -- racial, sexual or otherwise -- at the expense of equality before the law.

Only when documents such as Free Speech and Race Relations are scrutinised does the intellectual and moral failure of the contemporary Conservative Party become apparent. The effect of this code, if not its purpose, is to circumscribe legitimate debate. Candidates in all elections must undertake not to publish, or seek to have published by others, anything which stirs up or invites hostility or divisions between racial or national groups -- or which 'might reasonably be expected to stir up or invite such hostility or division'.

But who is to decide what constitutes such behaviour? The thought police of the CRE? Their definition of such concepts as discrimination is already notoriously broad: just as these expanded from 'direct discrimination' (of the obvious sort, say, on the basis of colour) to 'indirect discrimination' (any policy or practice that is 'equal in a formal [our italics] sense' but discriminatory in its effect on one particular racial group), so the new speech code will soon embrace far more than just the bigots of the British National Party and the National Front. Would Lady Thatcher's concern that we might be "swamped" by further tides of immigration have been judged inadmissible? Would, now, a manifesto commitment by this Government further to restrict social security benefits for bogus asylum seekers be allowed? What about advocacy of any public policy initiative affecting minorities, from the Prevention of Terrorism Act to welfare reform?

The fundamental thrust of the CRE's message is that many of the institutions and customs of this country are 'racist' (whether unintentionally or otherwise) and that they should, accordingly, be reformed in the interest of the six per cent of the population from 'nonwhite' ethnic minorities. This is social engineering on a vast scale and, now, further encroachments on freedom of speech are proposed. A backlash from the majority community could follow. More to the point, there is no evidence that ethnic minorities want to be treated as groups apart, who require special protections and privileges -- the principal effects of which are to worsen race relations. A truly self-confident Tory Government would close down this arrogant and expensive organisation forthwith. But we're not holding our breath.

Editorial, Daily Telegraph

The Prince Of Wales has appeared in yet another series of photo opportunities compromising the Christian faith of Britain by donning the religious garb of his hosts, in this case an islamic cap and shawl (Mail). A week earlier he was shown with a Hindu red dot on the forehead. What next? Will it be kohl round the eyes and a stud in his nose?

Does he not realise how offensive all this Is to British people who used to feel proud to be British but are now thoroughly ashamed of what we have become? Henry VIII would have had him beheaded -- or will It be me for having my say?

Norma Heywood
Letter, Daily Mail

Mr Major's extreme reluctance to lead and his readiness to slough off responsibility have led us to the fiascos of Scott and Nolan, the unacknowledged end of the Northern Ireland peace process, the drift towards an anti-monarchical political culture, the panic over BSE and, above all, the chaos over Europe...

The Prime Minister always seems to think that if you split the difference between two positions you have done something as clever as splitting the atom. If he was ever right, he is certainly wrong now...

People have no belief in the men or the measures, no expectation that they will be told the truth, no impression of competence, no faith or hope or charity. It won't do for ministers to rage at the unfairness of all this.

Racist leaflet fury

FALKIRK is being targeted by the the hated British National Party. Leaflets with explicit racial slurs are being distributed in the Braes area.

Now leading local councillors and householders have reacted with disgust and anger to the campaign.

By Anne Caine

It is the second time the British National Party has chosen Falkirk district as a target. Leaflets with the distinctive red, white and blue flag emblem of the BNP were left on car windscreens in Brightons.

Councillor David Speirs and his wife Ann received one of the obscene leaflets at their Brightons home. The councillor said: "This has got to be stopped. It is disgusting and out of order."

Sergeant Jones of Maddiston Police Office said: "This is something we are very concerned about and we are looking into it. If anything comes to being, we will be interviewing the parties involved."

Convener of the Women's and Equal Opportunities Committee on Falkirk Council, Councillor Tam O'Dea said he was angry and disgusted.

"I'm outraged at this incitement to racial prejudice, especially coming just months after the local campaign against racism won a European award." He expressed concern that the Falkirk area appeared to again be a target for the BNP.

Central Scotland Police's racial harassment unit has been informed of the Brace incident by Depute Provost Jeanette Burness, who is Convener of the Cental police board.

She said: "This is not nice for the ethnic minority groups who work really hard and give total support to Falkirk district. This cannot be allowed to happen here."

"Two years ago this area was selected as a major target for recruitment by the British National Party. The campaign involved leafleting football supporters at Brockville.

Mock hysterical drivel which reveals more about disgusted of Falkirk than it does about the BNP

NURSERY WORKER SACKED BECAUSE SHE WAS WHITE

A white woman from Hayes, west London has won a £10,000 pay-out after her boss -- a black racist said she was unfit for the job.

Jackie Griffiths was sacked as manager of Brent's Heritage Family Nursery in 1994, where she was the only white worker, after just five months. Her boss, convicted benefits fraudster Ms. Nkechi Amulu-Johnson, claimed 'unsatisfactory conduct and dereliction of duties', but the industrial tribunal to which Jackie took her case did not agree and ruled that Jackie had been sacked for being the wrong colour.

Ms Amulu-Johnson:

- Told Jackie she wanted her black deputy to take charge.
- Called her a 'little rat' in a heated telephone call.
- Suggested she wear a West Indian costume to work.
- Systematically ignored her while treating other staff well.
- Bought Christmas presents for 23 Black and Asian children and callously ignored the sole white child, leaving the little toddler in tears.

The tribunal declared that Jackie was treated in a disgraceful manner for reasons unsubstantiated and that there was no evidence to prove Jackie had not done a splendid job.

Coming on top of a recent case in which a white teacher in Lambeth, London won a case where she had been consistently passed over for promotion because of anti-white racial bias, this is very good news indeed. The only gripe BN has is with the derisory compensation. Jackie Griffiths wasn't passed over for promotion, she was sacked. The Lambeth teacher received £40,000. Recent awards for non-whites have been higher -- £50,000 in the most recent case. Jackie could and should have been awarded a lot more.

JACKIE GRIFFITHS: Victory in tribunal case

COLLAPSE OF THE STEPHEN LAWRENCE RACE DEATH CASE

Just before going to press, the three young white men accused of murdering black teenager, Stephen Lawrence were found not guilty at the Old Bailey.

Lawrence was stabbed to death by up to six white teenagers three years ago in Eltham, south east London, solely because he was black. In this case, if not in others, that seems fairly certain.

The three defendants: Gary Dobson, Luke Knight and Neil Acourt were all prosecuted under the first private prosecution for murder in 140 years. The judge instructed the jury to acquit after the prosecution withdrew its case. This followed protracted legal argument over eyewitness evidence which was finally ruled inadmissible because of the eyewitness having changed his story four times he was so confused. No eyewitness meant no case and hence the withdrawal.

Predictably there was outrage, especially over the 'evidence' the jury was not allowed to see obtained through police bugging Acourt's home which included a camera so small it fitted into a plug socket. Bugging transcripts were given to the press after the not guilty verdict.

The tapes reveal two things: Firstly that Acourt in particular and another man, David Norris and not a defendant, are thoroughly nasty pieces of work. Acourt speaks of wanting every black ''chopped up and left with nothing but fing stumps.'' Later, both he and Norris speak of mugging old grannies and killing the c*. Secondly, the tapes also reveal Acourt, Norris and Knight speculating on (a)Who killed Lawrence and (b)What the killer's motive was. The fact is that they didn't know. All through their bragging and fantasising, no admission was made -- not even to themselves. Nasty pieces of work they may be, guilty they were not. The acquittal was right.

THE MAD MAD WORLD OF THE CRE

POTTY social service workers are upset in the West of England because of all the lego figures of men and women at a toddlers group, none of them are black!

The Reverend Michael Foster, who manages the Gloucestershire children's group, is furious at the loony race inspectors' criticism, which he has slammed as ''political correctness gone mad.''

The race inspectors said he should buy more black toys to better reflect Britain's ethnic mix. But the rev. Foster, vicar of Holy Jesus Church, Lydbrook, Forest of Dean, has pointed out that none of the lego people is white either.

He said: ''Our lego figures are yellow,'' and he added, ''There was no insistence we buy white lego figures, only that we buy black ones. We could not even find black lego figures. It is verging on social engineering and tokenism... this is just ridiculous.''

The Labour/Lib-Dem coalition County Council defended the race inspectors insistence on black lego. A spokesperson said: ''Our equal opportunities policy is to reflect multi-cultural society. It's especially important in rural areas, where children might not have multi-cultural experience.''

This is communistic brainwashing pure and simple and the proof is that none of the children are being denied an 'equal opportunity'. But at least the affair has had good results: First, by their clumsy diktat, ordinary people have been antagonised and made hostile to the race watchdogs -- and their 'equality' propaganda, and second, people in the West of England at least have been shown that on race, Liberal Democrats are as bad as Labour.

All this 'multi-racial' poison stems from the evil Commission for Racial Equality (CRE). It was the CRE which attempted to stop the extradition from America of murderer Curtis Howard for killing pretty Catherine Ayling because he was black.

The CRE warn that ''Nurseries should make sure their dolls represent a variety of physical characteristics, skin tones and hair textures;'' and that ''foodstuffs used to teach children to weigh and calculate should be drawn from a variety of different cultures and cuisines;'' that children ''Should be made to understand that no one way of eating is better or more 'proper' than another'' and that ''English is but one among many languages.''

The CRE is an indefensible organisation. The business of protecting a murderer speaks for itself. The social engineering it is engaged in is damaging a whole generation of British children who are deprived of any sense of their own history, culture and heritage -- the equal of any in the world.

The only thing to do with the sick animal of the CRE is put it to sleep and close it down.

BN BRIEFING

REPATRIATION FILE

Last month there was quite a fuss over film of American police beating Mexicans who were illegally entering the USA. Mexico protested long and loud. It turns out though that Mexico has its own immigration problem with Guatemalan immigrants.

- Each year Mexico expels 70,000 illegal aliens across the Guatemalan border. Police beatings, robbery and rape of the detainees are quite common. All those expelled are done so without due process, so that all the detentions are, in fact, illegal.
- Malaysia has repatriated over 300 Vietnamese by ship in an ''orderly repatriation programme'' aimed at accelerating the return of thousands more Vietnamese immigrants. Other countries in the region are expected to follow suit.
- Germany has also worked out a deal to send 40,000 Vietnamese back to Vietnam. Vietnam agreed to the deal after Germany offered £90million in aid. At just £2,250 per person, Germany has clearly got a bargain. All the Vietnamese are to be returned within four years with the first 2,500 to go this year. Germany's first priority is to expel criminal elements first followed by the rest.
- Libya is more unceremonious about kicking out undesirable aliens. Earlier this year 13,000 Sudanese were rounded up and packed off to the border in 150 trucks and buses. Libya expects to expel a further 300,000 Sudanese by the end of the year. Last year, as well as Sudanese, Libya expelled thousands of Egyptians and 13,000 Palestinians.

THE GREAT DSS SWINDLE

Thousands of Britain's poorest and most vulnerable are being swindled out of the help they need by the Tory government. Department of Social Security Offices have been told not to give out any information to help OAPs and the unemployed get any benefits.

If a pensioner needs to make a claim but can't ask for the relevant form by its correct title or reference number, even if they can describe it and know what the form is for, staff are instructed not to help and not to hand over the form. Last year, over £100million went unclaimed and OAPs died of hypothermia.

Sir,
I have pleasure in sending you my cheque for renewal of my subscription plus a small amount as a donation.

When I read about that p*#*k John Major offering home to millions of Hong Kong Chinese I was consumed with anger. I just wonder what regard he has for us, the true British. If ever I have entertained any doubts about BNP policies, this one action of Majors has made me far more determined to embrace BNP policies. I tell you, if I could afford it I would sponsor the cost of having a BNP candidate standing at the next general election.

D. Brown,
Bolton, Lancs.

Sir,
My husband served six years in the forces, and now in his 70s is waiting for an operation. How much longer will he wait if we get these Chinese with dependants to further stack the queues against our own people?

Where will they live when our own are in cardboard boxes?

Where will the DSS cheques come from, when sick children cannot get treatment?

How much of our remaining beloved countryside will be sacrificed to house them?

The whole idea is madness. The world has changed since these assurances were given. These people must be absorbed by China with her great land mass and not by us a tiny dot by comparison.

Common sense must prevail.

Charlotte Wayne,
Halesowen, West Midlands.

Sir,
Thank you for the leaflet put through my door recently. I am an ordinary housewife with a teenage family with no political axe to grind, but may I just say how nice it was to see all my own thoughts put into print. I'm trying to do the best I can for my family and all I can see is this country being used and abused by other nationalities and it seems the government is more interested in giving benefits, money etc. to anyone but the white British population. It really makes me sick and I wish something could be done about it.

Unfortunately there will probably be no BNP candidate to vote for in my area (Woodford) otherwise you would definitely get my vote. It is time we got rid of the 'do-gooders' and loony left 'politically correct' people who just seem to want to ruin this country.

I hope you continue to push ahead an make more inroads into the political scene. I know you get a lot of flack from 'anti-nazi' protestors and such like, but believe me a lot of people in Britain today are sick and tired of the way things are. No more immigration into our country sounds like a dream come true as far as a lot of us are concerned!

I wish you luck and success for the future.

Mrs. Wells,
Woodford, Essex.

Editors note: Mrs. Wells will be delighted to find that there will indeed be a candidate for her to vote for!

Sir,
I am married with six children and live in a three-bedroom maisonette in Waltham Forest, east London and have been waiting to move into bigger council property for six years.

In the past two years the council has built approximately 40 new two, three and four bedroomed houses. I know that a black single mum with one son has been offered a new three bedroomed house. However, when I phoned the council to say that I would be interested in one of their four bedroomed houses I was told ''sorry, they've all been allocated.'' After making a few enquiries I have found out that all of these houses are for immigrants and refugees. The sooner we get rid of this odious system and introduce nationalism through the BNP the better.

Mr. S. Parnell,
Waltham Forest.

Sir,
I see from the March edition of BN that the Dutch government would seem to be saying to those at highest risk of AIDS that if they are looking for a change why not try Holland, next step a land whose language they can better understand and may not keep them out.

I saw on T.V. yesterday that some kids in Pakistan are paid less than 3p per day. And we in Europe must compete!

P.R.,
Rotterdam, Holland

The handbook is a mine of information on every problem involved in spreading the nationalist message and winning support for the BNP. It costs £1.50 plus 36p p&p.

HANG CHILD MURDERERS!
The vast majority of people agree that the death penalty should be reintroduced for child killers. Yet neither Conservatives, Labour nor Liberal Democrats are prepared to back such a measure into law. Parliament is supposed to represent the people. But the do-gooders who sit in Government are more concerned with the rights of murderers than with the safety of our children. Sick child killers are kept in prison, often in relative luxury and at vast expense, until such time as they are released to kill again. Others such as Ian Brady and Myra Hindley are a constant reminder to the tragic parents of their victims. All those like Brady and Hindley, gave up the right to live the moment they took a young life. With more and more of these cases occurring it is time for the death penalty to be reintroduced. A country which allows the killers of its children to live is morally bankrupt. Only the British National Party is committed to the reintroduction of the death penalty for child killers.

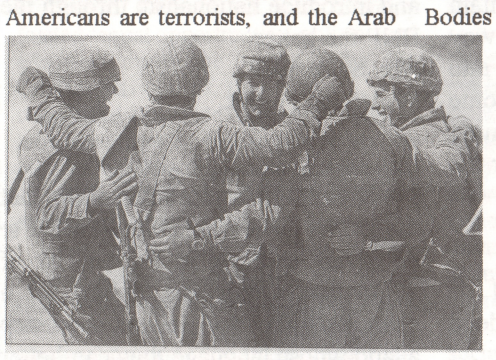
FOREIGN NEWS

ISRAEL'S BLOODY OCCUPATION

The Israeli occupation of southern Lebanon has been a catalogue of atrocity and slaughter. Since then, Lebanese resistance fighters have been waging a war of independence in much the same manner as the French resistance fought the Germans in the last war. The Lebanese resistance is called Hizbollah and aims to throw off the Israeli occupation. Israel claims Hizbollah is backed by Iran and Syria. So what? The French resistance were backed by Britain, the Dominions and America.

The latest escalation in violence came when Israel launched its 'grapes of wrath' operation and started to bomb and shell Lebanon supposedly in an operation against Hizbollah. Since the operation began only thirteen Hizbollah have been killed as Israel has used massive force to try to crack the Hizbollah nut.

The Israelis, who deliberately wish to provoke a refugee crisis, have said anyone remaining south of the Litani river does so at the risk of death. Soon afterwards, Israeli helicopters rocketed moving vehicles packed with civilians and six people including four children died in an ambulance that was attacked by helicopters near Tyre. Jamila Zein, a mother of three and one of a handful choosing to stay on in Tyre said: ''We're all Hizbollah here. The Israelis and the Americans are terrorists, and the Arab governments are below the ground: at least our boys are defending our land.''



Israeli soldiers celebrate another direct hit

The collective punishment of the people of Lebanon, initiating a refugee problem numbering some 400,000 fleeing the Israeli attack is the kind of 'crime against humanity' that the allies were busy hanging Germans for 50 year ago. This isn't the first time such crimes have been committed by Israel. In July 1993 the Israelis drove 250,000 from their homes when it rained 26,000 bombs, shells and missiles onto south Lebanon, killing 130 civilians.

The worst atrocity perpetrated by the Israelis however, has been the killing of 94 refugees and wounding of 100 more inside a UN base when over a dozen Israeli 155mm howitzer shells crashed into the base housing 600 refugees near Tyre in southern Lebanon. Bodies were strewn everywhere and UN personnel picked up human body parts all day. Three Fijian UN peacekeepers were injured and two were reported 'missing' [blown to bits]. As the shells landed, the Fiji radio operator cried: ''We're under fire... shells are landing on headquarters. People are dying here.'' Another officer said: ''I saw the massacre at Sarajevo market. But I can tell you that it was nothing compared to this.'' As medical teams went to the aid of the dead and wounded, Israeli warplanes continued to fire rockets near the base and an ambulance was attacked by Israeli helicopters. The death toll now exceeds 160, of which thirteen have been from the Lebanese resistance group. Earlier in the day, in another 'pinpoint raid', Israeli warplanes destroyed a block of flats killing 11 people including a mother and seven children.

Referring to the slaughter, Ehud Barak, the Israeli foreign Minister called it an ''unfortunate mistake.'' Mr. Peres, the Israeli Prime Minister said: ''We had no other choice but to defend our people and our soldiers.''

Britain's own Michael Portillo has made himself look puppet-like when he said: ''I would not describe the Israeli action as disproportionate. I would like to reiterate that we look to Israel always to take measures which are measured, considered and proportionate. I believe Israel has taken measures to ensure civilian casualties are kept to a minimum.''

Lebanon is demanding that the Israelis withdraw from Lebanon in compliance with UN resolution 425 passed in 1978. Rafik al-Hariri the prime minister agreed Hizbollah should be disarmed but only after Israeli withdrawal. ''Doing this now [disarming Hizbollah] will make it look as if we are facilitating occupation by Israel,'' He said.

The most striking thing in the whole episode has been the pathetically weak reaction from the West. Were Saddam Hussein be attacking another country in this way while occupying a large chunk of it, an international armed force of awesome power would be mobilised to send him packing and of course, that is precisely what happened. The two-facedness of British, American and French Governments has been transparently laid bare and is one of the chief reasons why the West is held in such contempt throughout the Muslim and Third world.

Why is it that no government in the West will condemn Israel? What makes them so special? The Independent on Sunday spelt it out when it said that the Jewish lobby in the USA which is unsurprisingly pro-Israel, exercised such a stranglehold over American politics that no politician dares make any criticism of Israel or Jewish interests. Politicians that have made such criticisms found themselves out of office after immense Jewish spending power was ranged against them at election time amid the usual name calling of 'nazi', 'fascist', 'anti-semite' etc. Because no one wishes to be called names, because no one will say what is right, Israel gets away with murder.

ITALIAN GENERAL ELECTION

The Italian election has led to the victory of the centre-left coalition over the Freedom Alliance which included Silvio Berlusconi's Forza Italia and Gianfranco Fini's National Alliance. The right-wing Freedom Alliance had been expected to do well before the election, but the polls proved everyone wrong. Bossi's Northern League, outside of any coalition, was expected to be squeezed but wasn't and Fini's National Alliance in particular had been expected to do a lot better than it did on the day.

Fini's party grabbed 15 per cent of the poll nationwide to give them a substantial number of MPs and Senators (just under 100 of each in each house), but not enough to carry the Freedom Alliance to a winning position. One of the possible reasons for the failure of the National Alliance to do better was that many Italians identified Fini with being the man who had pressed for the election (at a time when he had very high poll ratings!) in a country weary of such contests and which has now just had its third General Election in four years.

Nevertheless, 15 per cent is respectable. Fini, positioning himself for the long term, has conceded defeat graciously and promised vigorous opposition.

JEWS ATTACK BRANDO

Film star Marlon Brando caused a furore when comments he made on the Larry King show were attacked by Jewish activists in America.

The Oscar winner stated that Jews controlled Hollywood and slighted other races in films, but never their own. He said: ''Hollywood is run by Jews, it is owned by Jews and they should have greater sensitivity about the issue of people who are suffering.'' He followed up with: ''We've seen the nigger and the greaseball [in Hollywood films]. We've seen the chink. We've seen the slit-eyed dangerous Jap and the wily Filipino. We've seen everything. But we never saw the kike because they know perfectly well that's where you draw the line.'' The statement was similar to another he made in 1979 when he said: ''You've seen every race besmirched, but you never saw an image of the kike, because the Jews were ever watchful for that.''

While the factual basis of his statement could not be challenged, Brando who also praised the Jews and is an advocate for racial minorities nevertheless found himself under attack pretty quickly. The extremely unpleasant Rabbi Avi Weiss, while condemning Brando, let it all hang out when he said his organisation, the Coalition for Jewish Concern, would press to have the actor banned from films and television. And Irv Rubin of the Jewish Defence League (a group investigated for terrorism by the FBI) displayed all the tolerance at his disposal when he said to Brando: ''We're going to make the rest of your life a living hell.''

Although it was widely publicised that Brando would make a public apology, the actor refused to do so. Brando's new film, The Island of Dr. Moreau is out soon.

EDMONDS AND BRUCE SPEAK!

Richard Edmonds, BNP National Organiser and David Bruce, BNP Deputy National Organiser both gave speeches at meetings in Epping Forest and in Bristol last month.

Both areas will see candidates standing for the British National Party.

In Epping Forest, David Bruce told the audience of just under forty that all over the country, people were coming to the same conclusion: established political alternatives in this country were not attractive for people who are desparately looking for solutions to the country's problems. It only needs the seed to be planted in people's minds for them to seriously consider the merits of the British National Party.

Richard Edmonds made two essential points in his speech. Firstly, that events in this country made Britain a more unpleasant place to live by the year as crime increased and immigration spread to previously white areas.

Second that while the gullible public were swallowing the 'New Labour' fairy story, Labour activists openly derided their leader as Tory Blair. Mr. Edmonds then posed a very interesting question: ''Who can remember the Labour leader elected to run the old GLC?'' The answer was not the obvious Ken Livingstone. The truth was no one could remember the man's name at all, but his name isn't important. Labour won the GLC elections with a moderate leader in charge to 'front' for them. As soon as the election was won, there was a palace coup and Ken Livingstone was elected leader of the GLC.

With Tony Blair as Tory Blair, the moderate 'front' man for Labour and the dragon of the Labour left silent for so long, gullible Joe Public thinks Labour are safe. Wait until they're elected said Mr. Edmonds, then we'll see how tame Labour's left are. Labour left wingers have kept a virtual vow of silence for two or three years because of their unpopularity. They are silent now said Mr. Edmonds. Wait until they've won.

the Bristol meeting followed a similar format as these important messages go out across the country.

EDMONDS LENDS A HAND

Richard Edmonds, BNP National Organiser has again travelled to the Midlands to aid the election campaign in Birmingham in the final run up to polling day. All the campaigns are reportedly going well with heartening support on the doorsteps. While it remains to be seen if this translates into votes, it is at least encouraging.

LOCAL ELECTIONS 2nd MAY

A full election report will appear in next month' British Nationalist. Candidates are standing for the party in the Midlands and the North West.

NEW UNIT LISTING

All readers will note the changed layout of BNP unit listings (left). The changes have occurred as a result of a thorough review of BNP strength up and down the nation. Some units have disappeared as defunct and some have been added. Addresses and telephone numbers are shown where appropriate and a high priority is going to be made to keep the list current.

The most noticeable difference is the classification of BNP units into branches and groups. Standards of membership, active strength, British Nationalists bought and leaflets distributed apply to all groups and branches. The stronger and more active a unit is, the more likely it is to get branch recognition. Groups are obviously less strong/active than branches or both.

In the past, there was a tendency for a newly formed unit to get a PO Box as a form of recognition and then sit on its collective backside. No longer. Getting a PO Box is no guarantee of branch status (check the list). Furthermore, branches can and will be demoted.

New Technology fund: Target £2,000!

Most readers will know that during the past few years the British National Party has been going 'hi-tech' in the way of equipment for producing its publications, in particular the party newspaper British Nationalist. Now we need to upgrade our resources further in order to achieve both greater efficiency and labour-saving in the way of production and better quality in our finished output.

We need urgently to acquire the following:-

(1)A new A3 laser printer that will provide higher output resolution and thus better quality printed matter and which will be of sufficient size for one whole page of British Nationalist to be printed in one go.

(2)A scanner for British Nationalist that will enable typed articles to be scanned into the computer, thus saving the chore of typesetting, and which will also permit the scanning of photographs and line drawings, thus saving printing costs.

(3)Three fax-modems. These are devices that permit the linking up by telephone of computers situated at different locations. These will, for instance, enable an article or leaflet typeset on a computer in one part of the country to come up on the screen of a computer in another part by instant telecommunication, thus saving an enormous amount of time. The three modems are needed to equip three people involved jointly in the production both of British Nationalist and Spearhead magazine.

The total cost of all these items of new equipment is estimated to run to approximately £2,000. The sooner this money can be raised, the more quickly will the BNP and its allied publications be able to step up the speed, efficiency and quality of all publishing operations. This will be particularly necessary in the party's coming general election campaign, when in addition to its two supporting periodicals it will need to engage in a massive output of election literature.

WE ARE THE FUTURE
BRITISH NATIONAL PARTY

ARTWORK SERIES

From time to time, British Nationalist will be publishing nationalist artwork. The kind of artwork that encapsulates an aspect of nationalism – the mother and child; children at play; British heroes; rural scenery; great moments in our history; nationalists carrying the message of our struggle (above); British explorers; British inventors; British roots – the Celts, Angles, Saxons, Vikings and Normans who make us who and what we are.

Later in the year, an expanding series of these works will be produced as posters for function and home display purposes. Some will be in colour and some in black and white. Prices are not available at this time.

BNP Recruitment

With four months of 1996 having gone, we can report that recruitment figures achieved by British National Party units so far this year are not even. Assessing this performance on the basis of the starting size of the region in question, we find that 'good' ratings can be given to South London, Mid-South England, West of England, West Midlands and Scotland. 'Fair' ratings are earned by Outer East London & Essex, North & West London and Herts., Bucks. & Beds., East Midlands and North West England. Those regions not mentioned need to start pulling in more members!

Units must never forget that the key to a good recruitment rate is plenty of leafleting!

INCREASE IN PRICE

Readers will have noticed that the cost of British Nationalist has gone up from 30p to 50p as of this issue. This price increase reflects increased paper costs over the last year but also the increased cost of production generally over the last few years and during which time BN has not increased in price. At 50p, BN is still excellent value for money and provides a first class read carrying information deliberately censored by Britain's so-called 'free press'.

Postal charges increased some time ago and are only now being applied.

Current subscribers are unaffected by this change which only applies to subscriptions as from now.

All branches and groups should note very carefully that the price increase has been scaled to weigh in favour of bulk purchases to give an increased profit margin. Discounting postal charges, 100 papers bought and sold will now show a £22 profit for a branch -- up from £9 last issue. 200 papers sold will show a £52 profit and so on. There is now every reason to get out and sell BN.

British Nationalist* is our most effective propaganda weapon; the incentive is there to sell it. Make money, recruit more members -- sell BN!

What we stand for

- The establishment of a government of national unity that will put an end to nationally divisive party warfare; the return of leadership and statesmanship to British affairs.
- An end to immigration and a start to repatriation.
- British withdrawal from the European Community: trade with Europe where it suits us but no political ties.
- The disbanding of the multi-racial Commonwealth and its replacement by a new Commonwealth of self-governing white states.
- British ownership and control of British industry and resources.
- Protection of British industry by the selective exclusion of foreign manufactured goods from the British market.
- An end to the financial swindle that causes inflation and slump, and its replacement by a sane and fair financial system that will give the people the purchasing power to buy the goods they produce.
- The subordination of the power of the City to the power of Government, and the harnessing of the City to the needs of British industry.
- The regeneration of British farming, with the object of achieving the maximum self-sufficiency in food; also the restoration of the fishing industry by protection of our traditional fishing grounds.
- A healthy environment for a healthy people – the protection of our countryside and an end to the architectural disfigurement of our towns and cities.
- Tougher treatment of criminals, including the return of the death penalty.
- A return to traditional methods of education, with stronger discipline in the classroom and the sacking of 'trendy' teachers.
- An alternative defence strategy: withdrawal from NATO; closure of all foreign military and air bases in Britain; British withdrawal from the war in former Yugoslavia, where no British interest is at stake; the bringing home of British forces from Germany; the strengthening of Britain's defences and a position of armed neutrality.
- An end to overseas aid and the allocation of the money saved to the financing of repatriation and greater help for the needy at home.
- The crushing of the IRA, and the termination of the Anglo-Irish agreement and firm support for the loyalist majority in Northern Ireland.
- A return to healthy moral values aimed at strengthening the family and community.
